Captaintreacherous Takes On Six At Hoosier Park

Captaintreacherous may not have raced in Thursday’s Little Brown Jug, but he won’t be idle this week as the winner of the Meadowlands Pace, North America Cup and Cane Pace will take on six rivals in a $50,000 Invitational for 3-year-old colt pacers on Saturday night at Hoosier Park.

In the open draw, Captaintreacherous will start from post six with driver Tim Tetrick as the 4-5 morning-line choice. The Invitational is scheduled as Race 11 on a 14-race card that begins at 5:30 p.m. (EDT).

“Captaintreacherous’s trainer, Tony Alagna, told Weekend Preview on Thursday morning at the Delaware, Ohio fairgrounds. “I’m not sure that he’ll leave and try to go right to the front, but if I have to tell Timmy how to drive, then we’re both in trouble.”

Trainers who entered against “The Captain” received $1,000 for shipping costs. Trainer John Butenschoen said one reason he entered Kentucky Sires Stakes final runner-up Duel In The Sun—second choice on the morning line at 9-2—was that co-owner VIP Internet Stables has many owners and a start at Hoosier Park would give some who normally wouldn’t a chance to see the horse in action.

Trainer Ron Burke entered Nitro, who finished fourth in the recent Indiana Sires Stakes final at Hoosier Park. “Hoosier Park has always treated me well so I thought I should return the gesture and support this race,” Burke explained.

The Captaintreacherous Stable announced it would donate 20 percent of Captaintreacherous’s earnings from Saturday’s race to the Animal Protection League, a local non-profit organization that finds homes for unwanted animals in the community.

As for Captaintreacherous’s race schedule over the next few weeks, Alagna wouldn’t make any definite commitment. Up next for the 3-year-old colt pacers are the Bluegrass and Tattersalls at The Red Mile and then the Breeders Crown at Mohegan Sun at Pocono Downs.

“It’s still tentative,” said Alagna. “As we’ve done all along, it’s a week at a time with him. We’ll see how he races Saturday and how he comes out of it before we decide on his next start.”

Here is the field for the Invitational Pace, in post position order, with seasonal stats:

1—Duel In The Sun, driver Yannick Gingras, 9-2
   12-2-1-1 ($78,680) 1:52.3f; 2nd in Kentucky Sires Stakes final

2—That’ll Be The Rei, driver Mike Micallef, 12-1
   16-1-2-0 ($66,746) 1:51.2; Michigan Sires Stakes champion

3—Nitro, driver Ricky Macomber Jr., 10-1
   17-6-3-1 ($81,486) 1:51.2; 4th in Indiana Sires Stakes final

4—Lex Vegas, driver Tyler Smith, 15-1
   16-1-1-1 ($35,914) 1:52.4; 5th in Pennsylvania Sires Stakes final

5—Blatantly Best, driver Lewayne Miller, 5-1
   10-3-1-0 ($25,756) 1:51.4; Kentucky Sires Stakes leg winner

6—Captaintreacherous, driver Tim Tetrick, 4-5
   8-7-1-0 ($1,431,273) 1:48.1; winner of Meadowlands Pace, North America Cup, Cane Pace

7—LB’s Alamericanjoy, driver Matt Krueger, 15-1
   7-5-0-0 ($15,600) 1:50.2; winner of three straight overnight at Balmoral Park

$230,000 Centaur Leads Way For Day Of Racing At Hoosier Park

The draw sheet for Saturday’s Centaur Trotting Classic at Hoosier Park Racing & Casino boasts a who’s who among the top talent in the sport. On a card that also features reigning Horse of the Year Captaintreacherous and two divisions of young pacing talent in the Kentuckiana Stallion Management Stakes, a field of 10 free-for-all trotters will slug it out for a $230,000 purse.

Maple Leaf Trot victor Market Share tops the list of trotters that will converge on Hoosier Park Saturday. The Linda Toscano trainee has drawn post three and will have Tim Tetrick in the bike. To his inside is Arch Madness, drawing the rail, and Wishing Stone in post two. Peter Wrenn is listed as the driver of Arch Madness, but is also down on Scioto invader Undercover.

The draw sheet for Saturday’s Centaur Trotting Classic... boasts a who’s who among the top talent in the sport.

Strike (post nine). Yannick Gingras is slated to guide Wishing Stone.

Trainer Jimmy Takter will send out four year olds Uncle Peter and Guccio. Regular driver David Miller will steer Uncle Peter from post eight, while Takter takes the reins on Guccio, starting sixth behind the gate. My MVP, coming off a 1:54.2 victory at Lexington for trainer Tony Alagna, has drawn post four and will be driven by Ron Pierce.

The Centaur Trotting Classic, formerly known as the Pride In Progress, will also feature some local flavor. Appomattox, a winner in two of his last three starts at Hoosier Park for Frank Antonacci, will look to have a say in the outcome with Trace Tetrick aboard. Krista Williams sends out Rompaway Beau from the outside post Saturday. The Chip Chip Hooray gelding is coming off a 1:57.4 qualifier.

The Kentuckiana Stallion Management Stakes attracted a group of 15 freshman filly pacers, yielding two divisions. Reynolds winner Instant Respect leads a two-filly entry for Takter in the $138,300 first division. The Art Major filly, to be driven by Gingras, is joined by Arden Downs winner Rusty’s Bliss, bringing a 1:52.4 clocking into Saturday’s sixth race. The Virgil Morgan pupil will be driven by Hoosier Park leading driver Tyler Smith.

The $139,550 second division is headlined by Pennsylvania Sires Stakes champion Southwind Silence. Half of a two-horse entry for Burke Racing Stable, the filly has drawn post eight. Beach Body, also coming off starts in PASS action, ships to Indiana for her next start. The three-time winner will start from post six for trainer Chris Oaks. Pierce, who has guided the Somebeachsomewhere filly in previous starts, is listed to drive.

Captaintreacherous will face a group of six sophomore pacing colts in a $50,000 invitational. Joining the colt are Lex Vegas, Blatantly Best, Duel In The Sun, That’ll Be The Rei, LB’s Alamericanjoy and local representative Nitro. — By James Platz
Logjam For Final Spots
In NYSS Finals

With the final legs of the New York Sires Stakes (NYSS) this weekend at Batavia and Yonkers, there will be battles for the final available spots in the Night Of Champions at Yonkers on Sept. 28. The top eight in the point standings qualify for the $225,000 final in each division. The next eight horses in the standings go for the $50,000 Fall Harvest consolation in each division.

With only nine points separating the 10th position from the 7th position in the 2-year-old colt trot division, the battle for the highly sought-after final will be must-watch races this Friday at Yonkers.

Six male freshmen trotters have spots locked into place. Flyhawk El Durado (187 points) stands atop the standings followed by JSTrotting Bob (154) in second with Lukas Hall and Mister Anson tied for third with 134 points. The other two guaranteed for the final are Daley Lovin and The Lindy Treaty. All but Lukas Hall and The Lindy Treaty are competing in Friday’s two divisions at Yonkers, which are five-horse fields with each carrying a purse of $113,744.

Crazycrazzy and My Friend Charlie hold their spots in the top eight by a whisker over General Bill Brown and Credit Fashion, but General Bill Brown and Credit Fashion are entered in Friday’s leg at Yonkers and kick them out of the final.

Crazycrazzy is competing Friday at Yonkers, but My Friend Charlie was not entered.

“He didn’t come out of his Saratoga race as well as I would like,” said My Friend Charlie’s trainer, George Ducharme, also known this year for his top 3-year-old trotting colt Royalty For Life. “We know that we’ll probably get knocked out of the final and be in the Fall Harvest.”

The sophomore filly trotters have six guaranteed a spot in the finals due to their efforts this season. With 249 points, Barn Babe leads the pack followed by Lola De Vie (241 points) and Bouncing Bax (187). Proclaiming April, Wygant Lady, and Palm Beach Chic round out the top six.

There are eight fillies still mathematically eligible for the seventh and eighth spots in the final. Those two spots are currently held by Royal Malinda and Long Island Tea. However, Bostonz Credit, coming off a NYSS win at Yonkers, and Fifty Shades are just a few points behind those fillies. Those four fillies are only separated by eight points from top to bottom, making the final start highly important for this division.—By Jay Hochstetler

David Miller, William Weaver Elected To Hall Of Fame

David Miller, who has won more than 10,800 races and ranks fourth in lifetime earnings among all drivers in harness racing history, will be inducted into the Harness Racing Hall of Fame next summer, the U.S. Harness Writers Association announced Monday.

William Weaver, who bred influential trotting sire Valley Victory as well as several division champions, also will be inducted during the ceremonies on July 6 at the Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame in Goshen, N.Y.

In addition, longtime U.S. Trotting Association publicity director John Pawlak and retired USTA stakes director Carol Cramer will be enshrined in the Communicators Hall of Fame.

Miller, a 48-year-old native of Ohio, was voted Driver of the Year in 2003, when he led North America in purses and guided No Pan Intended to the Pacing Triple Crown. He is a three-time winner of the Little Brown Jug and one of only two drivers to capture the Little Brown Jug and its filly companion race, the Jugette, in the same year.

In 2011, Miller became the 10th driver in North American history to reach 10,000 wins. He has won at least $10 million in purses 11 times, the most of any driver in history, and trails only Hall of Famers John Campbell, Ron Pierce and Mike Lachance in career earnings.

Weaver, 77, from New Jersey, has enjoyed success as a breeder despite breeding a small number of horses each year.

Valley Victory was the sport’s top 2-year-old colt trotter in 1988 and won 11 of 14 lifetime races before being retired at age 3 because of illness. His offspring include Hambletonian winning colts Victory Dream and Muscles Yankee as well as filly Continental Victory, Victory Dream and Muscles Yankee also produced Hambletonian winners, with Muscles Yankee sons Deweycheatumnhowe, Muscle Hill and Muscle Massive winning the sport’s top trotting race in consecutive years (2008-10).

Other notable horses bred by Weaver include U.S. and/or Canadian division champions Chocolatier, Laddie, To Dream On, Was It A Dream and Wheeling N Dealin plus millionaire trotting mare Elusive Desire.

The multiple award-winning Pawlak joined the USTA in 1985 after serving as an announcer and marketing executive at Raceway Park in Ohio. His work with the USTA has ranged from writing to broadcasting, in addition to compiling and editing the annually harness racing fact book “The Trotting & Pacing Guide.”

Cramer retired as a fulltime employee of the USTA in 2007, but remains active as editor of the annual “Stakes Guide,” a job she has handled for 45 years. She was advertising manager for “Hoof Beats” magazine and a longtime Grand Circuit steward and secretary.

The inductees will be honored twice; first at the annual USHWA Dan Patch Awards banquet, Feb. 23 at Dover Downs, and for enshrinement July 6 at the Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame. (HRC)

Royalty For Life To Race In Kentucky Futurity

The decision by the connections of Captain Treacherous to skip the Little Brown Jug prompted a debate about heat racing, but as evidenced by the 19 entries for the Jug, the allure of the race remains. The same can be said about the Kentucky Futurity as the trainers of three top colts are planning to race their horses in the race on Sunday, Oct. 6, at The Red Mile and then go on to the Breeders Crown, which is scheduled to have eliminations on Saturday, Oct. 12, at Mohegan Sun at Pocono Downs.

Trainer George Ducharme told harnessracing.com on Tuesday morning that plans now call for his colt Royalty For Life to race in the Futurity. After the colt won the Hambletonian, Ducharme had mapped out a more conservative schedule, with a start in the Bluegrass the first week at Lexington and then skipping the Futurity. Royalty For Life’s powerful victory in the Canadian Trotting Classic prompted the change in plans.

Trainer Chuck Sylvester also plans for Pennsylvania Sires Stakes champion and Hambo third-place finisher Spider Blue Chip to compete in the Futurity and then go on to the Breeders Crown. He is also racing in the Old Oaken Bucket on Jug Day.

Creatine, who won an elim for the Hambo and was impressive with his 1:53.2 victory in a Pennsylvania Sires Stakes consolation at The Meadows the same night Spider Blue Chip won. Trainer Bob Stewart said Creatine’s schedule also presently calls for starts in the Futurity and the Breeders Crown.—By Kathy Parker

LBJ Society Approves Flexibility To Conditions

At Wednesday morning’s annual meeting of the Little Brown Jug Society, the board approved wording to allow for future changes to the conditions to the Little Brown Jug and Jugette without the traditional three-year wait. “We have had lengthy discussions regarding the future of the Little Brown Jug and the conditions of both events,” noted Tom Wright, president of the LBJ Society. “So many things are changing in the state of Ohio and we want some additional time to consider what is the best path for our signature races. Today’s change will allow for greater flexibility for future decisions.” In other action, the Board elected David Carroll of Powell, Ohio to the Little Brown Jug Society filling a vacant seat. Carroll is an attorney with Bailey Cavaliere LLC and has served as legal counsel for the LBJ Society and Delaware County Fair for a number of years. The Jug Society also re-elected the slate of officers, Tom Wright (president), Phil Terry (vice president) and William Lowe (secretary). (LBJ)
Hall Of Famer Schmidt To Sign Autographs At Breeders Crown

Mohegan Sun at Pocono Downs will welcome former Philadelphia Phillies third baseman and Hall of Fame baseball star Mike Schmidt to the racetrack on Breeders Crown day, Oct. 19, from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. for a special autograph session. The location will be the Sky Bridge between the casino and the racetrack. Authorized photos only will be autographed, and they will be available at the signing. No outside merchandise will be signed. Fans may line up at 1 p.m. and obtain a wristband to secure their photo and their spot in line. Fans may also bring their own cameras for a quick photo. Post time for the Breeders Crown card will be 5 p.m. (ET), with all 12 races contested on one night. More than $6 million in purses will be on the line for the night. This is the 30th Breeders Crown celebration, and during the course of the evening fans will enjoy footage of some of the best races of the last 29 years on the jumbotron screen. (Pocono)

Betterthancheddar Heads To Winbak Farm Of New York

Winbak Farm of New York has announced the addition of Betterthancheddar p,2,Q1:55.3s; 3,1:49.1s; 4,1:48f ($1,634,314) to its stallion lineup. Betterthancheddar is the son of two Living Hall of Fame parents, Bettor’s Delight and Lady Ashlee Ann. In 2012, at age four, he was the winner of the O’Brien Award for older pacing horses/geldings. A tough racehorse, he was one of the top 3 year olds in North America. His wins included the American National final, Breeders Crown elimination and final, Cane Pace, Summer-time Pacing Series elimination and the Windy City. He was second in the Little Brown Jug elimination and third in the final. He was also second in the Somewhere.

At four, Betterthancheddar won the Ben Franklin Pace elimination and $500,000 final (in a 1:48 world record), Bobby Quillen Memorial (in a 1:49.2 world record), Canadian Pacing Derby elimination and Des Smith Classic elimination. He was second in the Canadian Pacing Derby final and Mohawk Gold Cup.

In 2013, he was second in the Molson Pace and third in the Ben Franklin Pace elimination before suffering an injury.

Maryland Sires Stakes Adds 4 & 5 YOs

Starting in 2014, the Maryland Sires Stakes program will include Open races for 4 and 5 year olds with separate divisions for pacers and trotters. The Maryland Racing Commission (MRC) at its monthly meeting on Sept. 17 gave final approval of this regulation.

These stakes will be open to any Maryland-sired 4 and/or 5 year old that was nominated as a yearling. A Feb. 15 sustaining form and payment will be due. The info will be available at http://www.msrfonline.com by the beginning of October along with the list of horses that were nominated as yearlings.

The Maryland Standardbred Race Fund administrator will be available at the Frederick (Md.) Fair on Thursday, Sept. 19, at Chick’s Horse Sale on Tuesday, Sept. 24 and at the Hagerstown Sale to hand out copies of the regulation and answer any questions.

The MRC also approved an increase in Breeder Awards for Maryland sired horses; under the old regulation a total of eight percent (6.4 percent to the breeder and 1.6 percent to the stallion owner) was paid out; under the new regulation the total will be 10 percent (eight percent to the breeder and two percent to the stallion owner). (MSRF)

Jacqueline Ingrassia Hurt In Riding Accident

Trainer-driver Jacqueline Ingrassia, who is also a U.S. Trotting Association director, broke her leg in a riding accident at Assunpink Wildlife Management Area in New Jersey on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 17. Ingrassia, a skilled and experienced rider, had surgery early this morning to stabilize the break with a rod and pins.

“If I was a horse, they’d shoot me,” she said. “They did the surgery at 5:30 this morning. I got back in my room at 9 a.m. It feels a whole lot better since they did it. It’s stable now; before, it was moving around a little. The doctor is talking about starting to walk on it in a couple of weeks. I’ll be back in no time.”

She was unseated while approaching a jump on the 8-year-old trotting gelding Standardbred Arcaro.

“He stumbled and I went backside over tea kettle,” she said. “He’d been a good boy all day long and this was the last jump.”

Ingrassia, who was riding with a helmet, had no other injuries. She was riding with her friend Lella Montgomery, who caught and loaded the loose horse and called Ingrassia’s husband Frank, who brought her to CentraState Medical Center in Freehold, N.J. She expects to be discharged before the end of the week.

Well wishes can be sent to Ingrassia at LadyJay23@aol.com. (HRC)
