Teague Answers Question: Lather Up Or Wiggle It Jiggleit?

Following Lather Up’s world record-equating 1:46 win in the Graduate final last month at the Meadowlands, people began to ask the question: With the connections also campaigning the 2015 Horse of the Year Wiggle It Jiggleit, which horse do they consider to be better?

“Lather Up is a better horse and the greatest one I’ve ever had,” said veteran Delaware-based horseman George Teague Jr. “I don’t think I’ve ever seen a horse any faster. Not when you come home in :25 and an eighth in :12 and a piece.”

Teague’s son, Montrell, the regular driver for both Lather Up and Wiggle It Jiggleit, was more tempered in his response. “I like them both equal,” said Teague. “I’m not going to choose.”

Lather Up followed up his Graduate win with a 2:01 victory in the 1 1/8-miles Haughton Memorial. On Hambletonian day, Lather Up stretched his winning streak to three by capturing the 1 1/8-miles Sam McKee Memorial in a world-record 1:59.2, reaching the mile marker in a dazzling 1:46.3.

Lather Up, who is trained by Clyde Francis of the Teague Stable, will attempt to make it four in a row when he starts from post 4 in Friday night’s $300,000 Dan Patch at Harrah’s Hoosier Park. The 4-year-old son of I’m Gorgeous is listed as the 6-5 morning-line choice.

The Teague barn has had a long list of champions over the years, including 2004 Horse of the Year Rainbow Blue. Even after the 3-year-old filly pacer Rainbow Blue’s spectacular year in which she won 20 of 21 starts with earnings of $300,000 DAN PATCH OHP

Is Taylor Made Interested In Lather Up?

Rumors are circulating that an agreement between Taylor Made Farm and owners Gary and Barbara Isles has been reached for purchase of an interest in their world champion 4-year-old pacer Lather Up.

Lather Up is trained by Clyde Francis of the George Teague Jr. Stable, and Teague told Weekend Preview on Thursday afternoon that the Isles remain sole owners of the pacer.

Taylor Made, a prominent name in the Thoroughbred industry, has branched out into Standardbreds the last few years. It’s most recent harness purchase was the Down Under-bred star pacer Lazarus N, who won last year’s Dan Patch at Hoosier Park.

$1,195,010, at the time the most ever amassed in a single year by a female pacer of any age, Teague believed an even better horse was in his future. His faith was rewarded in 2015 when his stable sent out Wiggle It Jiggleit, who earned Horse of the Year accolades after winning 22 of 26 starts (with a career-best 1:47.4) and $2.1 million.

“I had Rainbow Blue and I didn’t think she’d be the last,” said Teague. “And I hope this one isn’t the last. Again, he’s the greatest one I’ve ever had.”

Lather Up’s competition includes the 2018 Horse of the Year McWicked, who finished third in last year’s Dan Patch and fourth in 2017’s renewal. Listed as the 5-2 second choice, the Brian Sears-driven McWicked—whose two wins this year includes the Gerrity Memorial at Saratoga—will start from post 2.

“It’s tough competition,” said Sears. “You can’t take anything away from McWicked, who’s been really good.”

This will be the fourth match-up this year between McWicked and Lather Up. McWicked was third to Lather Up in a Ben Franklin elimination on June 22 at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, and then finished second in the final as Lather Up made a break and finished ninth. McWicked was fourth to Lather Up in the Haughton Memorial and then third last time out in the McKee Memorial.

So what kind of race strategy does Sears envision? “I’ll maybe have to let the trip come to him a little bit,” said Sears. — By Gordon Waterstone

Scratched From Adios, Workin Ona Mystery Returns For Milstein

The $400,000 Carl Milstein Memorial for 3-year-old pacers headlines Northfield Park’s 16-race card on Saturday night (first post 6 p.m.) and Art Rooney champ and Meadowlands Pace, North America Cup and Cane Pace runner-up Bettor’s Wish has been tabbed the 5-2 morning-line favorite in the invitational race.

Bettor’s Wish will start from post 3 for driver Dexter Dunn. Ontario Sires Stakes star Century Farroh, making his first-ever U.S. appearance, is the 7-2 second choice from post 2 with driver David Miller. The third favorite starting from post 5 with driver Tim Tetrick is Workin Ona Mystery, whose connections hope the son of Captain Treacherous is fully recovered after having to be scratched from the Adios Pace eliminations on July 20 at The Meadows.

“I think he’s healthier. We just have to keep all the ducks in a row and go race and see how it works out.”

—Brian Brown about Workin Ona Mystery

As a result of the scratch, Workin Ona Mystery has not made a pari-mutuel start since finishing third in the Meadowlands Pace final on July 13. Brown prepped Workin Ona Mystery for the Milstein by qualifying him on Aug. 3 at Hoosier Park. With Tetrick’s brother Trace in the sulky, Workin Ona Mystery cruised to a 1:51.1 victory, pacing a back half of :53.4 (off a half of :57.2) and last quarter of :25.3.

“He’s trained back pretty good and he qualified really well,” said Brown. “Trace had also qualified him before the North America Cup for me (first in his elim and then third in the final) and afterward he texted me, ‘I liked him better this time than that time.’

“So I think he’s healthier. We just have to keep all the ducks in a row and go race and see how it works out.”

While post 5 is the second winningest post at Northfield Park (14.9 percent), Brown wishes the scenario was a bit different.

“The five is not a bad post, but I sure would have liked to have been inside Bettor’s Wish,” said Brown, who won the 2017 Milstein with Downbythesaidease.

Post 1 is the most successful starting spot at Northfield Park, winning at an average of 16.9 percent. Lining up in that position in the Milstein is Captain Victorious, who finished a disappointing ninth in the Adios final—21 ½ lengths behind winner Southwind Ozzi, who starts from post 8 in the Milstein—after capturing his elimination.

“It depends on which horse shows up,” said Yannick Gingras, who drives the son of Captain Treacherous for trainer Ron Burke. “If he’s the horse that showed up in the elimination of the Adios and the elimination and final of the Hampt (first and third), I think we’ll be sitting pretty good.

“He’s got great gate speed and of course we’re going to use it on the half-mile track. We’ll get away up close, no doubt about that, and then just hope the right horse shows up.” —By Gordon Waterstone

Atlanta Faces Seven In Strong Joie De Vie

The 2018 Trotter of the Year Atlanta will march into Tioga Downs on Sunday afternoon for the $132,000 Joie De Vie for older mare trotters, facing a very strong field of seven rivals. The card also includes the $148,000 Crawford Farms Older Horse Trot and a pair of Empire Breeders Classic eliminations for 3-year-old colt pacers. Post time is 1 p.m.

Atlanta, who returned from her Hambletonian-winning season with six straight victories to open up her 4-year-old campaign, comes into the race after having not raced since her 3p2 outing in the July 13 Hambletonian Maturity at the Meadowlands. Her first loss of the year came one week after her all-age record-setting 1:49.1 victory in the $250,000 Graduate final at the Big M.

After spending some turnout time at co-owner Crawford Farms in New York, Atlanta’s start will be her first in 29 days. The 4-year-old daughter of Chapter Seven will start from post 6 with Yannick Gingras driving for trainer Ron Burke.

Among Atlanta’s main rivals is Manchego, who comes into the race riding an impressive two-race win streak. After five consecutive off-the-board finishes to start her 4-year-old season, Manchego won a Big M overnight on July 27 in 1:50.1 and then followed that up last Saturday on Hambletonian day with a stakes-record 1:50 score in the $186,000 Dr. John Steele Memorial.

The star-studded cast also includes the Swedish-bred Darling Mearas S (post 4, Andy Miller) and Plunge Blue Chip (post 7, Ake Svanstedt), a pair of Svanstedt trainees who both have 1:49.4 lifetime-best efforts on their resumes.

Rounding out the field are Custom Cantab (post 8, David Miller) and Top Expectations (post 5, Daniel Dube), who respectively finished fourth and eighth in last weekend’s Steele Memorial.

Only six older trotters will line up behind the gate for the Crawford Farms, with that field including Mission Accepted and the 2015 Hambletonian champion Pinkman, who respectively finished one-two on Hambletonian day in the Vincess Preferred Trot.

Century Farroh Giving Nova Scotia Owner Big Thrills

Dave Ratchford was 16 when he bought his first horse. “And I’ve never been without a horse since then,” the 75-year-old Nova Scotia resident said.

Good thing. Otherwise he would have missed the opportunity to own a horse like Century Farroh.

Century Farroh has won eight of nine races this year and competes in Saturday’s $400,000 Carl Milstein Memorial Invitational for 3-year-old pacers at Northfield Park. The colt goes to the Milstein off a 1:49.4 win in an Ontario Sires Stakes Gold event, beating multiple-stakes-winner Bronx Seelster by a neck and Meadowlands Pace champ Best In Show by a half-length at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

“He doesn’t seem to want to get beat,” Ratchford said about Century Farroh, who has a four-race win streak. “I like some of the grit he has. Most of his trips have been hard-nosed. He’s on the front end, he’s doing the road work, and he just seems to keep on going.”

Ratchford, who owned an insurance agency before retiring about 10 years ago, has trained and driven horses for much of his life and still works with a small stable. He purchased Century Farroh for $17,000 at the 2017 London Selected Yearling Sale in Ontario. The colt is a son of Mach Three out of the stakes-winning mare Beachy Girl. Century Farroh, who has earned $293,128, is the richest of Beachy Girl’s four foals to reach six figures in earnings.

“The pedigree is fairly good for the budget I like to use; I like between $15,000 and $30,000,” said Ratchford, whose other recent successes included $10,000-yearling purchase Ms Mac N Cheese, a winner of more than $600,000 on the Ontario circuit. “I like the challenge of one on the lower end of it. He was one of maybe 30 colts or fillies I had marked in the catalog to look at. He came by and he fit the bill. I was in the right place at the right time, I guess.”

Century Farroh was turned over to trainer Dr. Ian Moore after Ratchford prepped and qualified the colt in Nova Scotia. He competed primarily on Ontario’s Grassroots Series circuit in 2018 and finished his season with four wins in 10 starts. All four victories came in a row to close his campaign, including a triumph in the Grassroots final.

“He was a nice colt right from the time we broke him,” Ratchford said. “I wasn’t sure if he would be this kind of a horse, we’re not used to that, but he’s never done anything wrong. He’s a nice gaited colt. He’s good mannered. Everything is good about him.

“I’m considered a pretty lucky guy, I suppose, as far as acquisitions are concerned,” Ratchford said. “We’re trying to make it happen. I don’t expect this is going to happen again in a lifetime, so we’re riding it while it’s here. It’s just starting to sink in what this horse is.”

Kentucky’s Marc Guilfoil: We’ve Been Testing

Kentucky Horse Racing Commission (KHRC) executive director Marc Guilfoil told Weekend Preview that contrary to a report written by Ron Gurfein in Harness Racing Update last Sunday, Aug. 4, out-of-competition testing has been provided for in the Bluegrass State since 2010. The story reported Kentucky was a jurisdiction that did not conduct out-of-competition testing.

“We were one of the first, if not the very first, jurisdictions with out-of-competition testing,” said Guilfoil. “I want it corrected and known that we’ve been testing.

“In that other erroneous story they used a baseball analogy, but my baseball analogy of that is that (report) is way out in left field.”

Guilfoil said out-of-competition testing is done either at The Red Mile or farm wherever the horse is located.

“We give notice and we can either go to the farm or an agreed location,” said Guilfoil. “We did quite a bit of testing during last year’s Grand Circuit (at The Red Mile). We can also call another state’s racing commission and they will send their vet there.

“Out-of-competition testing is just random,” he added. “We can use intelligence from other people and things like that. The presiding judge can also call any particular horse he wants tested.”

Guilfoil stressed all horses are subject to being tested, even those owned by the Red Mile ownership group.

“We’ve tested Frank Antonacci’s horses, we’ve tested George Segal’s horses, and we’ve tested Joe Thomson’s horses,” said Guilfoil. “Whenever we do out-of-competition testing at The Red Mile we always make sure we get some of the owners of The Red Mile’s horses so people won’t think we’re picking on them. We actually go out of our way.”

Guilfoil said while it’s the Racing Commission that conducts the tests, it’s the racetracks that foot the bill.

“We give notice and we can either go to the farm or an agreed location,” said Guilfoil. “We did quite a bit of testing during last year’s Grand Circuit (at The Red Mile). We can also call another state’s racing commission and they will send their vet there.

Guilfoil said while it’s the Racing Commission that conducts the tests, it’s the racetracks that foot the bill.

“The racetracks pay for drug testing like they do on every test,” he said. “We are in charge of the drug testing, we check the bills that the lab sends to the racetrack and the racetrack reimburses the lab for the testing.”

Guilfoil said while the KHRC has never tested a Standardbred on request from another commission, it’s commonplace in Thoroughbred racing.

“Especially on the Thoroughbred side for the Breeders Cup,” said Guilfoil. “When the Breeders Cup is in California, a lot of horses are here in Kentucky, so we will as a courtesy send a vet. They send us their testing kit and directions and our vets follow that.

“We do out-of-competition testing for any jurisdiction that’s called us. But nobody has ever called us to do out-of-competition testing for harness.”—By Gordon Waterstone

2YO Adriano Hanover To Compete In PASS Saturday

When Hanover Shoe Farms bred Western Ideal to A And G's confusion, it named the resulting foal Adriano Hanover to honor Adriano Sorella. And why not? Sorella is one of harness racing's most prominent owners with such stars as millionaire pacer Jimmy Freight in his portfolio.

Yet when Adriano Hanover walked into the sale ring at Harrisburg, Sorella passed up the opportunity to purchase him. Instead, trainer Jim King Jr. representing owners Jo Ann Looney-King and Joseph Palermo, gave $60,000 for the youngster.

Now, Sorella must watch from the sidelines as his namesake tries to extend his career unbeaten streak to four in Saturday's Tyler B, a $182,052 Pennsylvania Sires Stake for freshman colt and gelding pacers, at The Meadows. Adriano Hanover competes in Race 8, first of three Tyler B divisions, leaving from post 6 for regular pilot Tim Tetrick. First post is 1:05 p.m..

Here's how Adriano (the horse) slipped by Adriano (the horseman). By the time the Harrisburg sale rolled around, Sorella already had purchased just about all the yearlings he wanted to buy.

“They told me they named him for me,” recalls Sorella, who is based in Guelph, Ont. “I looked him over and even took a picture with him. But I was planning to buy only two Ontario-breds at Harrisburg. I wanted to get something for Andrew Harris to prepare and Richard Moreau to train, so I bought two for $100,000 each. Right now, Adriano is better than the ones I bought.”

Indeed, he's marched through PASS and Arden Downs splits, both at The Meadows, and Jim King indicates his colt has improved with experience.

“He has kind of a bouncy gait, so we've been working on that,” King says. “I think he's one of the better ones. He's eligible mostly in Pennsylvania this year, but he has a lot next year.”

The saga took an ironic twist when, in that PASS event, Adriano Hanover faced a colt named Aethon, who's co-owned by none other than Sorella. Did that set up something of a conflict for Sorella? Root for the horse you own? Root for your namesake?

“I gotta cheer for the horse that I pay the bills on,” Sorella says. “But if I could ever get a piece of the horse that's named for me . . . “

King responded in a similar light-hearted vein: “If he says he'd trade me straight up for Jimmy Freight, I'm not up for it.”

At least we think they were joking.

Saturday's card also features a $60,000 PA Stallion Series event for 2-year-old colt and gelding pacers. On the wagering front, the program offers a carryover of $4,545.21 in the Pick 5 (races 2-6) and a $190.24 carryover in the final-race Super Hi-5. — By Evan Pattak/Meadows Standardbred Owners Association

Forbidden Trade Wins Hambletonian; When Dovescry Takes Oaks

Hambletonian Day was to be a day to unfurl Swedish flags at the Meadowlands with Swede Marcus Melander sending out the pre-race favorite Greenshoe. Instead, Canadians Serge Godin, Luc Blais and Bob McClure stood in the winner's circle with Forbidden Trade, who pulled off a 15-1 upset in the $1 million Hambletonian on Aug. 3 at the Meadowlands.

Forbidden Trade, third in his Hambletonian elimination, was always in contention throughout the mile. McClure and his colt tracked Green Manalishi S, an elimination winner and a member of the Melander brigade, into the stretch. Forbidden Trade took charge, but danger was looming with Greenshoe uncorking a menacing rally. For an instant, it appeared Greenshoe would blow on by. McClure believed he was headed, but Forbidden Trade was not done. He hit the wire a neck the best with the timer reading 1:51.

"It was two incredible colts fighting it out," McClure said. "I don't think there was a loser in that, but we're really happy to get out on top."

The Melander-trained Gimpanzee rallied from far back to get third and Green Manalishi S, also trained by Melander and an elim winner in 1:50.3, held on for the fifth and final purse check.

Greenshoe, who won his elimination in 1:50.2, never looked comfortable behind the starting gate for the final as driver Brian Sears held him together to prevent a break.

That put him farther back than expected, a loss of ground that proved costly.

It was the 12th win in 18 starts for Forbidden Trade, a son of Kadabra bred by Steve Stewart. The colt was a $110,000 yearling purchase by Godin's Determination.

The $500,000 Hambletonian Oaks was won by When Dovescry, trained and driven by Quebec natives Rene and Simon Allard.

When Dovescry won by two lengths over previously unbeaten Millies Possession in 1:50.2. Asiago finished third.

When Dovescry got away second behind 55-1 shot Southwind Casha, who went to the front in a :26.4 opening quarter mile. Allard guided When Dovescry to the front on the backstretch, hitting the half in :54.4, and then faced a first-over challenge from Millies Possession as they reached three-quarters in 1:23.

"To be here as one of the owners, it’s just amazing," said Singh, a 48-year-old Yorktown Heights, N.Y., resident who owns When Dovescry with the Bruce Soulsby-led Go Fast Stable, Yves Sarrazin and Lawrence Dumain.

Wagering on the Hambletonian Day card at the Meadowlands was up 14.6 percent over the 2018 program. Both cards featured 16 races, but this year’s total of $6,501,778 was approximately $800,000 more than the year before.

Those who stayed with Forbidden Trade throughout the Hambletonian Future Wager cashed some nice tickets. With the exception of the first pool ($22), Forbidden Trade paid more in legs two ($103.60), three ($40.20) and four ($57.80) than he did in the actual race ($33.80). There were plenty of wagering options available on the Hambletonian day card at the Meadowlands, running the gamut from Survivor Pick 6, Super Hi-5s with a mandatory payout, and guaranteed Pick 4 pools. Those are the norm for racing.

What I liked was not the norm, and that was the proposition bets on the Hambletonian offered in the FanDuel Sportsbook.

Even the most casual of football fans are aware of all the “prop” bets offered on the Super Bowl, which cover just about everything connected to the game and festivities. You can bet on how long the national anthem singer will take to complete the song, or if that person will hold the microphone or it will be on a stand, or if the coin toss will be heads or tails, or what song will be sung first by the half-time performer.

FanDuel had several prop bets for the Hambo card. I looked at the sheet and found some I really liked, but for whatever reason, I played just one. And it was a winning ticket as I got 9-5 odds that driver Yannick Gingras would make the Hambletonian final with both of his elim drives. When Osterc and Don’t Let’em both finished second, I had a winner!

The sheet showed an over/under of 1:49.3 for the final time of the Hambletonian final. Although I believed it to be a lock to be over, I didn’t play. And I would have won. I laughed when I saw the prop bet “Hambletonian Final winner to be declared by disqualification” at odds of 66-1. Too bad there wasn’t a “no” option there. Or “Any trainer besides Marcus Melander to win the Hambletonian Final” at odds of 8-1. A lot of people liked that wager as I saw closing odds of 7-2. I did see a photo of a $500 ticket on this play, which resulted in a profit of $2,250 as that person got odds of 9-2.

My only issue with the props was that based on my trips through the grandstand, people just didn’t know about them. In the future, I think the bets would attract a lot more attention—and play—if signage was placed around the track with the bets offered listed.

There were two sports wagering tellers in the grandstand near where I was sitting, and there was never anybody in line. Both of those windows should have had large signs saying, “Bet the Hambletonian props here!” You don’t even need to make the windows dedicated to the Hambo props; you just need something that attracts attention and notes the plays are available.

Prop betting on the Super Bowl has become a huge bonanza for sportsbooks. There are even crossover bets with other sports offered, such as “Will Patrick Mahomes throw more touchdown passes than goals scored in the New York Rangers/Boston Bruins hockey game?” Similar, on Saturday there was a Hambletonian parlay bet that included three race-related offerings as well as the result of the New York Yankees vs. Boston Red Sox game that night. A FanDuel rep told me nobody cashed that ticket.

Prop bets don’t take away from wagering on the Super Bowl itself. I believe that could be the same on Hambletonian day, so load it up with even more prop bets and market these to the sports betting players, with hopefully a little crossover that might create a horseplayer! And include the rest of the races as well. What would you have played if there was a wager “Will the mile time in the Sam McKee Memorial be 1:47 or lower?” I’d bet you would have bet over. And with the time being 1:46.3, you would have lost.

I hope next year the Meadowlands’ brain trust gets together with FanDuel and offers up a bevy of prop bets. Including the length of time of the national anthem. Why not?—By Gordon Waterstone

"Supporting and encouraging the breeding of Standardbred horses for over 90 years."
Stakes action gets underway at 12:25 p.m. on Friday with four divisions of the Pennsylvania Sires Stakes for 2-year-old colt trotters at Harrah’s Philadelphia—races 1, 3, 7 and 9.

Northfield Park’s signal is worth watching Friday night as well as Saturday, when the Milstein Invitational is carded. On Friday night (post time 6:20 p.m.) Ohio Sires Stakes for 2-year-old colt trotters and 2-year-old filly pacers are featured on the program.

Friday night’s Harrah’s Hoosier Park program, with the Dan Patch Free-For-All, gets underway at 6:30 p.m. In addition to the showcase race, the much beloved Indiana-sired FREAKY FEET PETE will compete in Race 10 on the card, starting from post 3 for driver Trace Tetrick.

Tioga Downs will present divisions of the Tompkins and Geers stakes for 2 year olds on Friday night (first post 6:15 p.m.). The Race 7 division (post time approximately 8:03 p.m.) for 2-year-old filly pacers features the three-for-three American Ideal-sired LADYBOSS, who will start from post 3 with Wally Hennessey in the sulky. The Race 9 event for 2-year-old filly trotters includes HEART N SOUL DEO, also three-for-three. The Muscle Hill filly out of Yursa Hanover will start from post 6 with Tim Tetrick.

Next year’s pacing colt stars might be competing in Pennsylvania Sires Stakes divisions at The Meadows on Saturday afternoon (first post 1:05 p.m.). Three divisions are carded, with the following notables: Race 8, first leg winner and three-for-three ADRIANO HANOVER starts from post 6; Race 9—FATHER NUNO, a first leg winner in 1:52.4 for trainer Tom Cancelliere, faces the Ron Burke-trained 1:52.1f first-leg winner CATTLEWASH (post 7); Race 10—SUPER MAC, a son of Somebeachsomewhere out of Michelle’s Power and a 1:53.2f winner, is the 5-2 favorite for trainer Jim Campbell. There are also three Stallion Series divisions on the card with the two-for-two CAPTAIN GROOVY, a 1:52 winner, the 8-5 favorite from post 1 for trainer Ray Schnittker.

Saturday night’s Northfield Park program, a 16-race card, includes Ohio Sires Stakes (3-year-old colt trot and 3-year-old filly pace) and notable performers in conditioned races. QUEEN OF THE PRIDE competes in an Ohio Sires Stakes division (Race 2); SUPER SCHISSEL will race in Race 7, an OSS for 3-year-old colt trotters; and DANCIN YANKEE (Race 8) and SOUTHWIND AMAZON (Race 9) compete in overnights.

PA-sired 2-year-old pacing colts will also be in action at The Red Mile on Saturday night in the first Kentucky Sires Stakes leg of the season. Two fields of pacing colts—with 12 of the 14 sired by PA stallions but raised in Kentucky—will compete in Races 6 and 7. An 11-horse 2-year-old filly pace field is scheduled as Race 8.

And don’t overlook Race 7 at Yonkers Raceway on Saturday night. SIX PACK, the third-place finisher in last Saturday’s John Cashman Memorial on Hambletonian Day, will start from post 8 in the $46,000 Open Handicap Trot, which could be a test for an appearance in the Yonkers International in October.

Sunday is another big stakes day and night. Post time at Tioga Downs is 1 p.m. and in addition to the Joie De Vie Mare Trot, which will feature ATLANTA and MANCHEGO, and the Crawford Farms Trot with the males (Race 8, post time 3:06 p.m.), two eliminations for the Empire Breeders Classic for 3-year-old colt and gelding pacers are set as Race 5 and Race 7. The Race 7 field includes speedster SHAKE THAT HOUSE, who sports a 1:47.4 mark. He’ll start from post 7 in the seven-horse field, with Brian Sears scheduled to drive for trainer Chris Oakes.

And you won’t want to miss Pennsylvania Sires Stakes action for 3-year-old filly pacers at the Downs at Mohegan Sun on Sunday night—Races 6, 8 and 10. Race 8 (9:06 p.m.) will feature STONEBRIDGE SOUL (post 2), WARRAWEE UBEAUT (post 3) and TRILLIONS HANOVER (post 4). Last Saturday at the Meadowlands the Tom Fanning-trained Trillions Hanover stormed home in :25.1 to miss winning the Shady Daisy by a neck, with Tall Drink Hanover getting the victory. TALL DRINK HANOVER is 2-1 in Race 10, starting from post 6, with PHILLY HANOVER 5-2 on the morning line with her inside post advantage (post 3).
